Great Things Are Happening Here

On Sunday, Nov. 3, over 700 people visited the Everett Roehl Marshfield Public Library & Community Center as thirty-four groups representing all interests and phases of life, gathered to share their progress and role in "Great Things Are Happening Here"!

Marshfield is a great place to live, learn and grow because so many people give their time to causes that improve our community. Often, people don't know who is responsible for improvements or important services. The event celebrated our local heroes and brings them out of anonymity to be thanked. This annual appreciation open house started as a way to recognize the many donors to the Marshfield Public Library

Foundation and grew to include the entire community.

Celebrations included several non-profits from the community with fun such as Pete the Cat, Sweet Adelines, balloon artist Peter John Lindsay of Half-Twisted/Half-Knot and K-9 Officer Steffi along with refreshments, door prizes, activities and gratitude.

Healthy Living for your Brain & Body: Tips from the Latest Research Alzheimer's Series, Part Two

Wednesday, November 13, at 6:00 pm
Felker Family Genealogy Room

This program, focuses on caregiver stress over the holidays, is co-hosted with the Alzheimer's Association. Information will center on diet, exercise, cognitive activity, and social engagement with strategies to incorporate these matters to boost your spirits and reduce tension.

Learn more about what is happening this month at Everett Roehl Marshfield Public Library on our City Channel 991, Nov. 8 at 3:30pm or throughout the week or on-demand video streaming on the City of Marshfield's website at ci.marshfield.wi.us.
